Tisztelt Bizottságok!

Előzmények

Magyarország 1948. szeptember 14. óta tagja az UNESCO-nak.

Az UNESCO Oktatási Intézet 2007-ben alakult át teljes értékű UNESCO intézetté, mely 2006-tól az Egész életen át tartó Tanulás Intézete névfelvétellel is tükrözte leghangsúlyosabb feladatát, az egész élet át való tanulás lehetőségének segítését.

Az UNESCO Egész életen át tartó Tanulás Intézete (UIL) kezdeményezte az UNESCO Tanuló Városok Globális Hálózatának (Global Network of Learning Cities) létrehozását. Jelenleg több mint 200 tagja van a hálózatnak az UNESCO öt régiójából.

Az UNESCO Tanuló Városok Globális Hálózata egy olyan nemzetközi szakpolitika-központú hálózat, melynek célja inspirációt, know-how-t és a legjobb gyakorlatot megosztani a résztvevő városok között.

A szervezet víziója: A város jövője az egész életen át tartó tanulás biztosítása mindenki számára.

A szervezet missziója: Az egész életen át tartó tanulás gyakorlatának támogatása és felgyorsítása a párbeszéd előmozdításával, továbbá a kapcsolatépítéssel és egymás közötti tanulással a tagvárosok között; kapcsolatok és partnerségek elősegítése; kapacitásfejlesztés; eszközök fejlesztése a tanuló városok építésében elért haladás ösztönzésére.

A Tanuló Városok Globális Hálózatával kapcsolódó ügyeket Magyarországon, így a csatlakozási kérelmeket ügyét is, az UNESCO Magyar Nemzeti Bizottság kezeli. Az UNESCO Egész életen át tartó Tanulás Intézete, mely a Tanuló Városok Globális Hálózatának feladatit koordinálja, Hamburgban található.

Milyen haszonnal járhat a hálózathoz való csatlakozás?

Az alábbiakban megfogalmazott előnyökkel és hasznokkal járhat, ha egy város az UNESCO Tanuló Városok Globális Hálózatának tagjává válik:

1. Útmutatás és segítségnyújtás a tanuló város felépítésének során.
 - a. A tanuló városok fejlesztésére szolgáló eszközök és stratégiák elérése.
 - b. A legfrissebb kutatási és gyakorlati jelentések legjobb gyakorlataival való megismerkedés.
 - c. A legfrissebb információk elérése a témában.
2. Dinamikus hálózat részévé válás és saját partneri kapcsolatok és hálózatok erősítése.
 - a. Nemzetközi konferencia és a regionális konferencia megrendezésére nyújtott támogatások.
 - b. Kapcsolat más, hasonló érdekű tanuló városokkal, hasonló problémák megoldására közös válaszok kidolgozása, közös fejlesztési elképzelések.
 - c. Az egész életen át tartó tanulás területén szakemberekkel és szakember hálózattal való kommunikáció a fenntartható fejlődés érdekében.
 - d. Technikai támogatás a hálózat tagjaitól.
3. A város visszajelzést kap a megtett erőfeszítésekről, bemutathatja a városban megvalósított tevékenységeket.
 - a. A kommunikációs csatornákon keresztül bemutathatja az elért mérföldköveket és haladását a város az UNESCO Tanuló Városok Nemzetközi Hálózatának tagjaival.
 - b. Részt vehet a tanuló város esettanulmányokban.
 - c. Jogosulttá válik az UNESCO Tanuló Városok díjára.

A tagság megszerzésének menete

1. lépés: A kérelem benyújtása előtt minden kandidáló városnak meg kell vizsgálnia az UNESCO Tanuló Városok Globális Hálózatának tagsági szabályzatát.
2. lépés: Elkötelezi magát a város az UNESCO Tanuló Városok Globális Hálózatának útmutató dokumentumainak végrehajtására. (1. sz. melléklet)
3. lépés: A tagfelvételi adatlap kitöltése. (2. sz. melléklet)
4. lépés: A tagfelvételi adatlapot (kérelmet) az adott ország UNESCO Nemzeti Bizottságához kell beküldeni jóváhagyásra, továbbá másolatban az UNESCO GNLC koordinációs csoportnak is meg kell küldeni.
5. lépés: Amennyiben az adott ország UNESCO Nemzeti Bizottsága támogatja a tagságot és ellenjegyzí a benyújtott kérelmet, továbbítani fogja a teljes pályázatot az UNESCO Egész életen át tartó Tanulás Intézete (UNCAL) intézetbe, továbbá egy teljes másolatot is küld a város számára.

Tagsági Szabályzat főbb előírásai

Minden UNESCO tagország városa tagja lehet a Tanuló Városok Globális Hálózatának, melyek elfogadják a Tanuló Városok koncepcióját.

Egy országból évente maximum három város válhat tagjává az UNESCO Tanuló Városok Nemzetközi Hálózatának.

A csatlakozási kérelmek benyújtási időszakát megkötik: évente egy alkalommal van lehetőség a csatlakozási kérelmek benyújtására, minden év március 1-től április 30-ig terjedő időszakban lehet csatlakozási kérelmeket benyújtani adott ország UNESCO Nemzeti Bizottságához.

Tagdíj nincs. Önkéntes hozzájárulások felajánlhatóak.

A tagvárosoknak kétfévente beszámolót kell benyújtaniuk az UNESCO GNLC Koordinációs csapatnak az előrehaladásukról, hogy miként teljesítik a „tanuló várossá válás” megvalósítását.

Alapdokumentumok

Fontos, hogy a város vezetősége legyen elkötelezett a „tanuló város” fejlesztésében. A hálózatba való kapcsolódás érdekében az önkormányzatoknak folytatniuk kell az egész életen át tartó tanulás lehetőségeinek megteremtését egészen a tanuló várossá válásig.

A tanuló város koncepciója két fő dokumentumon alapszik. 2013-ban az 1. Nemzetközi Konferencián fogadták el a Tanuló Városok Globális Hálózatának két alapvető dokumentumát:

- A Pekingi Nyilatkozat a Tanuló Városok Fejlesztéséről (Beijing Declaration on Building Learning Cities) című dokumentum a tanuló városok fejlesztéséről szól és vázolja az egész életen át tartó tanulás szerepét a befogadás, a jólét és a fenntarthatóság előmozdítására a városokban.
- A Tanuló Városok Alapvető Jellemző (Key Features of Learning Cities) című dokumentum a tanuló városok jellemzőit, ismérveit foglalja össze.

Pekingi Nyilatkozat

A nyilatkozat lényege, hogy megfogalmazza azt a 12 cselekvési tervet, melyek megvalósításával „tanuló várossá” képes válni az adott város.

- 1) Az egyének ösztönzése és a társadalmi kohézió támogatása
- 2) A gazdasági fejlődés és a kulturális jólét
- 3) A fenntartható fejlődés előmozdítása
- 4) Az inkluzív tanulás ösztönzése az oktatási rendszerben
- 5) A tanulás újjáélesztése a családokban és a közösségekben
- 6) A tanulás megkönnyítése a munkahelyeken
- 7) A modern tanulási technológiák kiterjesztése
- 8) A tanulás minőségének javítása
- 9) A tanulás kultúrájának előmozdítása az egész életen át
- 10) A politikai akarat és elkötelezettség erősítése
- 11) Az irányítás javítása és minden érintett bevonása
- 12) Az erőforrások jobb mozgósítása és felhasználása

Tanuló Városok Alapvető Jellemzői

A dokumentumban megfogalmazzák a tanuló városok ismérveit, jellemzőit. Megfogalmazzák azokat a mérő- és mutatószámokat, melyek mentén mérhetővé válik a tanuló város fejlődése és előrehaladása.

A tanuló város ismérve:

A „tanuló város” olyan város, amely hatékonyan működik és megfelelően mozgósítja erőforrásait minden ágazatban az alábbi célok érdekében:

- az inkluzív tanulás ösztönzése az alapoktól kezdve egészen a felsőoktatásig;
- a családok és közösségek tanulásának újjáélesztése;
- a munkahelyi tanulás elősegítése;
- a modern tanulási technológiák kiterjesztése;
- a tanulás minőségének és kiválóságának javítása;
- a tanulás kultúrájának előmozdítása az egész életen át.

Ezáltal erősíti és ösztönzi az egyéneket és a társadalmi szerepvállalást, a gazdaság és kultúra erősödését és a fenntartható fejlődést.

A „tanuló város” ismérveivel és területeivel összhangban határozták meg a dokumentumban azokat mérő- és mutatószámokat, melyek a tanuló város fejlődését és előrehaladását kívánják mérni. Ezeket a mérő- és mutatószámokat is hosszán részletezi a dokumentum.

Mind a Pekingi Nyilatkozatban, mind a Tanuló Városok Kulcsjellemzői című dokumentumban foglaltakat az önkormányzatnak el kell fogadnia és irányadónak kell tekintenie.

Kérem a T. Bizottságokat és a Képviselő-testületet, hogy támogassa Budaörs városának csatlakozását az UNESCO Tanuló Városok Globális Hálózatához.

Foreword

Lifelong learning is becoming increasingly important in today's world and is an integral part of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. Global visions for the future of lifelong learning are being discussed at the international level, and regional and national political leaders are working towards establishing the appropriate legislative frameworks. Meanwhile, more and more of the world's cities are making implementation happen by building learning cities. Learning cities enable their citizens to learn throughout life. In doing so, they enhance individual empowerment, social cohesion, and economic and cultural prosperity, thereby laying the foundation for sustainable development.

Learning cities at all stages of development can benefit greatly from sharing ideas with other cities, as solutions for issues that arise as one learning city develops may already exist in another. The UNESCO Institute for Lifelong Learning established the UNESCO Global Network of Learning Cities (GNLC) in order to promote this sharing of ideas, and to provide cities with the expertise, guidance and support they need throughout the development process. This international policy-oriented network serves as a source of inspiration, know-how and best practice for those involved in building learning cities.

I am pleased to introduce the Guiding Documents of the UNESCO GNLC. These Guiding Documents consist of the Beijing Declaration on Building Learning Cities and the Key Features of Learning Cities, both of which were adopted at the 1st International Conference on Learning Cities in Beijing, China, in 2013. They serve as the basis of our work and provide cities and partners with guidance on building learning cities.

I wish to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to UNESCO GNLC cities, partners and supporters, all of whom recognize the major role played by lifelong learning in enhancing social, economic and environmental sustainability. I would also like to encourage cities and partners all over the world to join the initiative and create lifelong learning opportunities for all in the world's communities.

Introduction

We live in a complex, fast-changing world where social, economic and political norms are constantly being redefined. Reducing poverty, boosting economic growth and employment, managing demographic transformations, promoting diversity and equality, tackling climate change, ensuring public safety and responding to urbanization are just some of the challenges we face. These challenges need to be tackled on multiple levels. At the international level, we need our leaders to set out clear visions for peace, prosperity and sustainability. At regional and national levels, politicians must establish the appropriate legislative frameworks. At the local level, implementation takes place. And at the citizen's level, change begins. Lifelong learning can lay the foundation for this change, as citizens who develop their knowledge, skills, values and attitudes throughout life are better equipped to help society overcome the challenges it faces.

Enabling citizens to learn throughout life has become a priority for communities around the world. Lifelong learning as the foundation of sustainable social, economic and environmental development is also at the heart of UNESCO's learning city concept.

To support the implementation of lifelong learning, the UNESCO Institute for Lifelong Learning (UIL) established the UNESCO Global Network of Learning Cities. The network promotes policy dialogue and peer learning among member cities; forges links; fosters partnerships; provides capacity development; and develops instruments to encourage and recognize progress made in building learning cities.

The work of the network is based on two key documents: the Beijing Declaration on Building Learning Cities and the Key Features of Learning Cities. The Beijing Declaration on Building Learning Cities outlines the role of lifelong learning in promoting inclusion, prosperity and sustainability in cities, and it affirms commitments to twelve actions for developing learning cities. The Key Features of Learning Cities provides an overall framework of key features of learning cities and a comprehensive checklist of action points to enhance and measure the progress of learning cities. Guided by these documents, the network aims to help cities use the power of lifelong learning to secure a sustainable future.

1. Beijing Declaration on Building Learning Cities

Lifelong Learning for All:

Promoting Inclusion, Prosperity and Sustainability in Cities

Preamble

We, the participants at the International Conference on Learning Cities, co-organized by UNESCO, the Ministry of Education of China and Beijing Municipal Government (Beijing, 21–23 October 2013) declare as follows:

We recognize that we live in a complex, fast-changing world where social, economic and political norms are constantly redefined. Economic growth and employment, urbanization, demographic change, scientific and technological advances, cultural diversity and the need to maintain human security and public safety represent just a few of the challenges to the governance and sustainability of societies.

We affirm that, in order to empower citizens – understood as all residents of cities and communities – we must strive to give them access to and encourage their use of a broad array of learning opportunities throughout their lives.

We believe that learning improves quality of life, equips citizens to anticipate and tackle new challenges, and helps build better and more sustainable societies.

We acknowledge that the concept of learning throughout life is not new; it is an integral feature of human development and is deeply rooted in all cultures and civilizations.

We maintain that lifelong learning confers social, economic and cultural benefits to individual learners and communities and should be a primary focus of cities, regions, nations and the international community.

We acknowledge that the majority of the world's population now resides in cities and urban regions, and that this trend is accelerating. As a result, cities and urban regions play an ever greater role in national and global development.

We recognize that “learning communities”, “learning cities” and “learning regions” are pillars of sustainable development.

We accept that international and regional organizations, as well as national governments, have a vital role to play in developing learning societies. However, we are aware that this development must be rooted in sub-national regions, cities and all types of community.

We know that cities play a significant role in promoting social inclusion, economic growth, public safety and environmental protection. Therefore, cities should be both architects and executors of strategies that foster lifelong learning and sustainable development.

We acknowledge that cities differ in their cultural and ethnic composition, heritage and social structures. However, many characteristics of a learning city are common to all. A learning city mobilizes human and other resources to promote inclusive learning from basic to higher education; it revitalizes learning in families and communities; it facilitates learning for and in the workplace; it extends the use of modern learning technologies; it enhances quality in learning; and it nurtures a culture of learning throughout life.

We envision that a learning city will facilitate individual empowerment, build social cohesion, nurture active citizenship, promote economic and cultural prosperity, and lay the foundation for sustainable development.

Commitments

We commit ourselves to the following actions, which have the power to transform our cities:

1. Empowering individuals and promoting social cohesion

In today's cities, individual empowerment and social cohesion are crucial to the well-being of citizens, fostering participation, trust, connectedness and civic engagement. To equip citizens to anticipate and tackle the challenges of urbanization, cities should attach great importance to individual empowerment and social cohesion.

In developing learning cities, we support individual empowerment and social cohesion by:

- ensuring that every citizen has the opportunity to become literate and obtain basic skills;
- encouraging and enabling individuals to actively participate in the public life of their city;
- guaranteeing gender equality; and
- creating a safe, harmonious and inclusive community.

2. Enhancing economic development and cultural prosperity

While economic development plays a fundamental role in increasing standards of living and maintaining the economic health of cities, cultural prosperity is a powerful contributor to quality of life. As a repository of knowledge, meaning and values, culture defines the way people live and interact within communities.

In developing learning cities, we will enhance economic development and cultural prosperity by:

- stimulating inclusive and sustainable economic growth;
- reducing the proportion of citizens living in poverty;
- creating employment opportunities for all citizens;
- actively supporting science, technology and innovation;
- ensuring access to diverse cultural activities; and
- encouraging participation in leisure and physical recreation.

3. Promoting sustainable development

To ensure the future viability of communities, natural resources must be used in ways that ensure a good quality of life for future generations. Sustainable development cannot be achieved through technological solutions, political regulations or fiscal incentives alone. It requires fundamental changes in the way people think and act. Lifelong learning is a necessary part of making this change.

In developing learning cities, we will promote sustainable development by:

- reducing the negative impacts of economic and other human activities on the natural environment;
- protecting the natural environment and enhancing the liveability of our cities; and
- promoting sustainable development through active learning in all settings.

4. Promoting inclusive learning in the education system

All citizens, regardless of ability, gender and sexuality, social background, language, ethnicity, religion or culture should have equal access to learning opportunities. If a person is excluded from participating in the education system, their ability to develop as individuals and contribute to their communities may be impaired.

In developing learning cities, we will promote inclusive learning in the education system by:

- expanding access to early childhood care and education;
- expanding access to formal education from primary to tertiary level;
- expanding access to and participation in adult education and technical and vocational education and training;
- improving the flexibility of lifelong learning systems in order to offer diverse learning opportunities and meet a range of proficiencies; and
- providing support for marginalized groups, including migrant families, to ensure access to education.

5. Revitalizing learning in families and communities

Lifelong learning is not confined to educational or business settings. It infuses the entire life of a city. In most societies, the family is an especially important setting for learning. Learning in families and local communities builds social capital and improves the quality of life.

In developing learning cities, we will revitalize learning in families and local communities by:

- establishing community-based learning spaces and providing resources for learning in families and communities;
- ensuring, through consultation, that community education and learning programmes respond to the needs of all citizens;
- motivating people to participate in family and community learning, giving special attention to vulnerable and disadvantaged groups, such as families in need, migrants, people with disabilities, minorities and third-age learners; and
- recognizing community history and culture, and indigenous ways of knowing and learning as unique and precious resources.

6. Facilitating learning for and in the workplace

Due to globalization, technological advancement and the growth of knowledge-based economies, most adults need to regularly enhance their knowledge and skills. In turn, private and public organizations need to embrace a culture of learning.

In developing learning cities, we will facilitate learning for and in the workplace by:

- helping public and private organizations to become learning organizations;
- ensuring that all members of the workforce, including migrant workers, have access to a broad array of learning opportunities;
- encouraging employers and trade unions to support workplace learning; and
- providing appropriate learning opportunities for unemployed youth and adults.

7. Extending the use of modern learning technologies

Information and communication technologies (ICT) – particularly the Internet – have opened up new possibilities for learning and education. Modern cities must enable all citizens to use these technologies for learning and self-empowerment.

In developing learning cities, we will extend the use of modern learning technologies by:

- developing policy environments favourable to the use of ICT in learning;
- training administrators, teachers and educators to use technologies that enhance learning;
- expanding citizens' access to ICT tools and learning programmes; and
- developing quality e-learning resources.

8. Enhancing quality in learning

It is not sufficient for lifelong learning policies and practices to focus on increasing numbers of participants. In many cities, there is a disparity between the numbers of people participating in education and learning and those who succeed in mastering relevant, portable skills and competences. Quality is, therefore, of utmost importance. In particular, there is an acute need to foster skills, values and attitudes that will enable people to overcome religious, linguistic and cultural differences, to coexist peacefully, and to discover shared human, moral and ethical principles.

In developing learning cities, we attach great importance to enhancing quality in learning by:

- promoting a paradigm shift from teaching to learning, and from the mere acquisition of information to the development of creativity and learning skills;
- raising awareness of shared moral, ethical and cultural values, and promoting tolerance of differences;
- employing appropriately trained administrators, teachers and educators;
- fostering a learner-friendly environment in which learners have, as far as practicable, ownership of their own learning; and
- providing support to learners with special needs, in particular those with learning difficulties.

9. Fostering a culture of learning throughout life

Most people today experience a variety of learning environments. When the outcomes of all learning are valued, rewarded and celebrated by a city, this strengthens the position of learners in society and motivates them to learn further. This motivation should be supported by the provision of comprehensive information and advice to help people make informed learning choices.

In developing learning cities, we will foster a vibrant culture of learning throughout life by:

- recognizing the role of communications media, libraries, museums, religious settings, sports and cultural centres, community centres, parks and similar places as learning spaces;
- organizing and supporting public events that encourage and celebrate learning;
- providing adequate information, guidance and support to all citizens, and stimulating them to learn through diverse pathways; and
- acknowledging the importance of learning in informal and non-formal settings and developing systems that recognize and reward all forms of learning.

10. Strengthening political will and commitment

It takes strong political will and commitment to successfully build a learning city. Politicians and administrators have primary responsibility for committing political resources to realizing the vision of a learning city.

In developing learning cities, we will strengthen political will and commitment by:

- demonstrating strong political leadership and making a steadfast commitment to turning our cities into learning cities;
- developing and implementing well grounded and participatory strategies for promoting lifelong learning for all; and
- consistently monitoring progress towards becoming a learning city.

11. Improving governance and participation of all stakeholders

All sectors of society have a key role to play in learning and education and should participate in building learning cities. However, stakeholders and citizens are more likely to contribute to building learning cities if decisions are made in a participatory way.

In developing learning cities, we will improve governance and participation of all stakeholders by:

- establishing inter-sectoral coordination mechanisms to involve governmental and non-governmental organizations and the private sector in building learning cities;
- developing bilateral or multilateral partnerships between sectors in order to share resources and increase the availability of learning opportunities; and
- encouraging all stakeholders to provide quality learning opportunities and to make their own unique contribution to building a learning city;

12. Boosting resource mobilization and utilization

Cities and communities that embrace lifelong learning for all have seen significant improvements in terms of public health, economic growth, reduced criminality and increased democratic participation. These wider benefits of lifelong learning present strong arguments for increased investment in the building of learning cities.

In developing learning cities, we will boost resource mobilization and utilization by:

- encouraging greater financial investment in lifelong learning by government, civil society, private sector organizations and individuals;
- making effective use of the learning resources of all stakeholders and developing innovative funding mechanisms to support lifelong learning for all;
- removing structural barriers to learning, adopting pro-poor funding policies and providing various types of support to disadvantaged groups;
- encouraging citizens to contribute their talents, skills, knowledge and experience on a voluntary basis; and
- encouraging the exchange of ideas, experiences and best practice between organizations in different cities.

Call to Action

Numerous places already define themselves as learning cities or regions. They are keen to benefit from international policy dialogue, action research, capacity building and peer learning, and to apply successful approaches to promoting lifelong learning. Therefore,

1. We call upon UNESCO to establish a global network of learning cities to support and accelerate the practice of lifelong learning in the world's communities. This network should promote policy dialogue and peer learning among member cities, forge links, foster partnerships, provide capacity development, and develop instruments to encourage and recognize progress.
2. We call upon cities and regions in every part of the world to join this network, to develop and implement lifelong learning strategies in their cities.
3. We call upon international and regional organizations to become active partners in this network.
4. We call upon national authorities to encourage local jurisdictions to build learning cities, regions and communities, and to participate in international peer learning activities.
5. We call upon foundations, private corporations and civil society organizations to become active partners of the global network of learning cities – drawing on experience gained in private-sector initiatives.

2. Key Features of Learning Cities

1. Introductory Note

Several approaches have been taken in recent years to translate the concept of a learning society into reality. One significant example is the growth of 'learning communities', 'learning cities' and 'learning regions'. Although the idea of a learning city has mostly been conceptualized in developed countries, facilitated by the OECD since the 1980s and the European Commission since the 1990s, it is now rapidly gaining momentum in developing countries. In more and more Member States, local authorities now claim to be learning cities/regions/communities. Their proliferation has become a major worldwide phenomenon, with considerable educational, social, economic and environmental implications.

What is a Learning City?

Cities differ in their cultural and ethnic composition, in their heritage and social structures. However, many characteristics of a learning city are common to all. The initiative on learning cities developed by the UNESCO Institute for Lifelong Learning defines a learning city as follows:

A Learning City is a city which effectively mobilizes its resources in every sector to

- promote inclusive learning from basic to higher education;
- revitalize learning in families and communities;
- facilitate learning for and in the workplace;
- extend the use of modern learning technologies;
- enhance quality and excellence in learning; and
- foster a culture of learning throughout life.

In so doing it will create and reinforce individual empowerment and social cohesion, economic and cultural prosperity, and sustainable development.

Why monitor progress in developing learning cities?

Since a learning city facilitates lifelong learning for all, and therefore helps to realize the universal right to education, building such a city has far-reaching appeal. This is a continuous process; there is no magic line over which a city will pass in order to become known as a learning city. There are, however, attributes by which a learning city can be recognized, mainly in terms of what it does rather than what it is. The construction of a learning city entails an operational and pragmatic approach to the implementation of lifelong learning. It is not an abstract theory. If a city has the political will and commitment to build a learning city, it will also need a set of indicators or key features against which it can monitor its progress.

Put simply, monitoring the progress of a learning city is necessary for three main reasons:

- To transform political and theoretical discourses into concrete strategies and approaches;
- To measure progress over time; and
- To evaluate the benefits of the strategies it has put into place

The Key Features of Learning Cities will make it possible:

- To support in a meaningful way the development of lifelong learning within and across member cities;
- To determine up to a certain level how much progress is being made to implement lifelong learning for all in many of the world's communities; and
- To facilitate international comparative analysis and experience-sharing and mutual learning among member cities.

The development of the Key Features of Learning Cities

This normative instrument for measuring learning cities is the result of a long consultation process. Initially, UIL held a workshop on developing a framework for the Key Features of Learning Cities from 3 to 5 July 2012. Experts representing some of the partners for the establishment of IPLC, including the PASCAL Observatory, Bertelsmann Foundation, CISCO Systems, Beijing Municipal Education Commission, National Centre of Education Development Research of China, Kuwait University and the Cape Higher Education Consortium, as well as some UIL professional staff and consultants, participated in the workshop.

This workshop first of all drew inspiration from the following well-established conceptual frameworks and indicators for measuring social and economic development:

- The Human Development Index (HDI) and related indices developed by UNDP (2007);
- The Revised Official Monitoring Framework for the Millennium Development Goals: goals, targets and indicators (UN, 2008);
- The Knowledge Assessment Methodology: Variables and Clusters by the World Bank (2012);
- The Better Life Index by OECD (2012);
- The Future We Want – RIO+20 Report (UN, 2012);
- A New Global Partnership: Eradicate Poverty And Transform Economies Through Sustainable Development (UN, 2013); and
- Post-2015 Development Agenda: Goals, Targets and Indicators (The Centre for International Governance Innovation and the Korea Development Institute, 2012).

Inspired by a list of criteria for indicators developed in the UN report Analysing and Measuring Social Inclusion in a Global Context (UN, 2010), the following criteria were endorsed at the workshop to develop the Key Features of Learning Cities.

- Ambitious but achievable – achieving the target should represent significant progress but should also be realistic.
- Crucial – every feature reflects a value, a priority or a critical issue.
- Relevant – a feature must fit its intended purpose; achieving the target should contribute significantly to meeting a key objective.
- Clear and understandable – a feature must be simple and easy for all stakeholders to understand, and should make sense to the average person.

- Easy to measure – a feature should be measured by available data, or by data to be collected through a well-designed survey.
- Valid and reliable – people must trust the information that a feature provides.

As a result of intensive debates and group work, the workshop produced the first draft of the framework of the Key Features of Learning Cities. Taking the comments from experts into consideration, UIL has produced a draft which was presented in the 1st meeting of the Expert Group for Developing Learning Cities in Hangzhou, China. In April and May 2013, UIL consulted some experts and a number of cities on the relevance of the key features and the feasibility of data collection. On 4–5 June 2013, UIL held a second meeting in Jeju Island, Republic of Korea. The participants of the meeting elaborated further on the draft Key Features of Learning Cities.

Based on the expert group's validation, UIL selected a number of cities in each of the UNESCO regions for piloting, which was completed in September 2013. The Key features reflect the results of the piloting.

Components of the framework of the Key Features of Learning Cities

As shown in Figure 1, the framework of the Key Features of Learning Cities corresponds to the pediments, columns and foundation steps of the UNESCO logo.

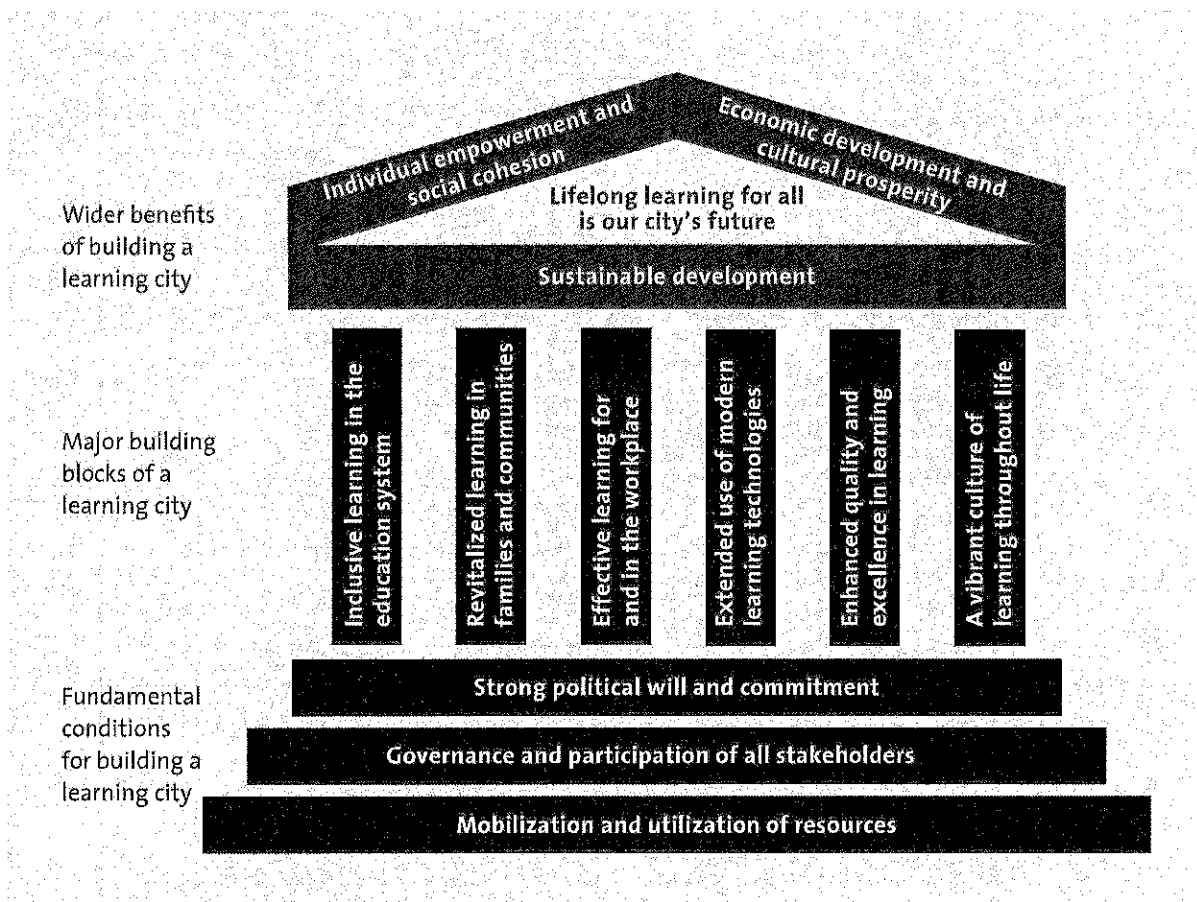

The Pediment – three areas of focus reflect the wider benefits of building a modern learning city, broadly defined as:

- (1) Individual empowerment and social cohesion;
- (2) Economic development and cultural prosperity; and
- (3) Sustainable development.

The Columns – six areas of focus reflect the major building blocks of a learning city:

- (1) Inclusive learning in the education system;
- (2) Revitalized learning in families and communities;
- (3) Effective learning for and in the workplace;
- (4) Extended use of modern learning technologies;
- (5) Enhanced quality in learning; and
- (6) A vibrant culture of learning throughout life.

The Foundational Steps – three areas of focus reflect the fundamental conditions for building a learning city:

- (1) Strong political will and commitment;
- (2) Governance and participation of all stakeholders; and
- (3) Mobilization and utilization of resources.

A total of 42 features are included in the Key Features of Learning Cities. Most of the features are quantitative, and related statistics can be provided by the responsible city authorities. As for qualitative features, some can be measured by the results of a survey conducted by independent professional agencies such as Gallop, while others can be measured through expert review of reports provided by the responsible city authorities.

The objective is not to make distinctions between cities. Each city is different and its progress towards a learning city can only be measured within the context of its own cultural, economic and social history and traditions.

How to use the Key Features of Learning Cities

Formally endorsed by mayors and city education executives of learning cities as well as experts participating in the International Conference on Learning Cities, the Key Features can serve as a comprehensive checklist of action points to help municipal governments and other stakeholders of cities in their efforts to build learning cities that promote lifelong learning for all.

Furthermore, as the members of a global network of learning cities need to be recommended by UNESCO Member States, the national authorities of the Member States can use the Key Features to select and recommend cities to join the network.

More generally, the Key Features can also be used as a reference document for international organizations and national authorities in promoting the development of learning nations, regions, cities and communities.

Vision:	Lifelong learning for all is our city's future.
Mission:	To support and accelerate the practice of lifelong learning by promoting policy dialogue and peer learning among member cities; forging links; fostering partnerships; providing capacity development; and developing instruments to encourage and recognize progress made in building learning cities.
Guiding Documents:	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• The Beijing Declaration on Building Learning Cities outlines the role of lifelong learning in promoting inclusion, prosperity and sustainability in cities and affirms commitments to twelve actions for developing learning cities.• The Key Features of Learning Cities provides an overall framework of key features of learning cities and a comprehensive checklist of action points to enhance and measure the progress of learning cities.
Learning city:	The Guiding Documents define a 'learning city' as a city that effectively mobilizes its resources in every sector to promote inclusive learning from basic to higher education; revitalizes learning in families and communities; facilitates learning for and in the workplace; extends the use of modern learning technologies; enhances quality and excellence in learning; and fosters a culture of learning throughout life. In doing so, it will enhance individual empowerment, social cohesion, economic and cultural prosperity, and sustainable development.
Network:	Membership of the UNESCO GNLC comprises learning cities at various stages of development. Partners and the Secretariat of the UNESCO GNLC also make essential contributions to the network.
Secretariat:	The Secretariat of the UNESCO GNLC coordinates the network. The Secretariat is based in the UNESCO Institute for Lifelong Learning (UIL), the only organizational unit in the UN family that holds a global mandate for lifelong learning.
